CURED OF PALPITATION OF THE HEART AND GEN-ERAL PROSTRATION

Dr. A. Owen's Electric Belts, Spinal Appliances, Electric Trusses and Insoles.

Sworn Statement of Mrs. Will Hobar of St. Paul, Neb.

Sr. PAUL, Neb., Aug. 15, 1889. every one suffering as I have for the past few years with palp tation or the heart and nervous prostra-tion to tell them what your wonderful Electric Belt has done for me. For years I had heart trouble, had ried different physicians, was better at times, then corse; finally, in the month of February, 1884, I was taken down to my bed with nervous prostration, was so weak from palpitation it seemed I never ould get up again. I finally got so I could waik from one chair to another, then my heart would throb so I was so weak I could acarcely talk. I was in this con-dition about two months or more. I had a good phy-sician, and got apparently better for a while, but not staut or any account. Soon after this I moved to Al-ton, Ill., and the following February, 1885, I was taken down again. It seemed I must go into con-sumption. I was so weakened and my heart trouble was worse than ever. I was so nervous and pros-trate life was not worth living. I could not care for my family or children; was confined to my room all the time. My husband again called in the doctor. He gave me a bottle of medicine. Said get all the fresh air you can. You all know what he meant, of

I could not hold my arms up; had to sit in an arm-chair so I would not have to raise my arms. My breast and chest had become so sore and tender I sould not bear to be touched. I decided to go to one nore doctor, which I did. He thought I had hear lisease badly from symptoms, but finally, to get rid if me, he told me my lungs were affected, and gave me the doctor's last remedy (that is, when they do not know what to do), seek a more congenial climate. This was in 1867. I had taken every patent medicine I could hear or read of that suited my case, but with very little help. Finally, taking doctor's advice. I started for Florida, as my hus-band was auxious I should do anything, or go any-where that would help me, broke up our home here, been too much for me. I was taken down as before. Seven weeks passed by before I was able to resume my journey. Sick and discouraged, I started again. Diy husband sent me a paper with Dr. Owen's adnents in, and urged me to try one of the belts. He had great faith in them, but I had no faith in anything; but when in Ss. Louis I went to their office, had a talk with them, and finally purphased one of their belts as a last resort. I went on to Florida, took my belt, but thought I did not mare to try it there; then it burned me so I thought I would wait two or three weeks. I then took down with chills and was sick; then yellow govercame, and I decided to go back to Nebraska, and if I had to die, be with my family, as I had left them behind. I went back, took my belt and made up my mind to give it a fair trial. I wore it all the time, either day or night. This was Novemand. and made up my mind to give it a fair trial. I wore is all the time, either day or night. This was November, 1887. That winter I was not sick to amount to anything, and this last winter, 1888 and 1889, I am perfectly well, the palpitation is all gone, the soreness has all left me, I do all my housework with the help of my children-washing, ironing, churning, sewing for family of seven-can walk any distance I want to and feel well every way, thanks to Dr. Owen's Belt. I advise every one suffering with any disease for which they recommend to not wait like I Owen's Beit I advise every one suffering with any disease for which they recommend to not wait like I did, but try the beit at once. I still wear my belt at times, and would not be without it. They are all they are recommended to be. Every one is surprised when they see me, but I have only one story to tell over and over. It was Dr. Owen's Electric Belt that has given me new life and made me what I new am. There is one other thing I wish to mention, and that is this: That prior to wearing the belt I had always suffered a great deal from constipation, but since I wore the belt I have not been troubled in that way. Yours very truly.

loe, who was shot by the Post-office yester which were sent to the POST - DISPATCH is resting quietly this morning, and the doctors express some hopes of his recovery

Col. Swope's body has been cared for by friends, and funeral preparations have been made. Col. Goodlee is surrounded by his family in Dr. Young's office. The true story of the trouble between the two men has come to light this morning, and a graphic descrip-tion of the fight which ended in Col. Swope's death has been furnished by an eye-witness, Mr. Will Shelby, an attorney.

STATEMENTS OF AN ETE-WITNESS. Mr. Shelby says he was standing in the Post-office corridor and saw Col. Goodice come in office corridor and saw Col. Goodice come in the building from the street. About the same moment Col. Swope decended the stairs from his office on the second floor, where he conducts the office of Collector of Internal Revenue. They glowered at each other and approached the tier of boxes. The boxes rented by both are side by side, and in opening his Col. Goodine losted Col. Swope's arm or hand. A word was passed and Mr. Shelby peard one say: "Do not speak to me." and heard one say: "Do not speak to me," and the other replied: "You have insulted me."

as a piston-rod plunged the knife into Swope's body, breast, back and sides. Once Swope raised his left arm to strike, and like a flash the knife was driven into his side near the armpit. He backed away several feet Goodloe following and driving the blade deep into his body at every step untill he fell bleeding from twenty wounds. When Swope fell, Goodloe turned and walked out into the street where he was met by several friends. He was staggering and told them that Swope had shot him through the body. They carried him to Dr. Young's office on the corner and messengers were sent out to his wife and relatives immediately, it being thought he would live only a few moments. The builet struck a paper Goodloe had in his hand and passed through the lower cavity, causing internal hemorrage. He was told he had killed Swope, and said, "yes, I think I have. He squealed like a calf when I got at him." Mrs. Goodloe arrived in town in a carriage in less than an hour and was so weak she could not stand. She went to the doctor's office and, on seeing her husband alive, embraced him tenderly. She then began assisting the doctor.

Friends of Col. Swope's then took the body rested well last night and this morning his physicians believe he has a good chance for recovery. The people are still greatly excited and hundreds have aiready visited the scene of the tragedy in the Post-office and discount of the tragedy in the Post-office appoint delegates to the Presidential conven-tion that nominated Benjamin Harrison for President, both Col. Goodlee and Col. Swope were delegates from Lexington. Swope wanted Sherman for President, while Goodloe was a warm supporter of Blaine. At the convention Goodloe made a ringing speech, in which he made light of Swope's pretensions to leadership and made the allegation that Col. Swope was not on speaking terms with the members of his own as I had said to friends prior to this difficulty, and would have said to Col. Swope, I properly requested, that the language used by me in the Louisville Convention was in defense of the Fayette County delegation, of which I was a member, against what I conceived to be an unjust imputation, and not as a personal attack on Col. Swope. The language was an exaggeration made in the heat of debate and regretted by me in a moment afterward.

He Knew Both Men Well.

Friends of Col. Swope's then took the body in a carriage to the Coroner's office and there the number and extent of the wounds were learned. There were eighteen cuts in the overcoat and thirteen in the body, none of them slight, and more than hait of them reaching vital parts of the body. The gashes were sewed up and the body prepared for burial.

ORIGIN OF THE FEUD.

The true story of the trouble between the two man has been told by their friends, who have done all they could to keep them apart. They never had been close friends, but no open rupture occurred until the fall of 1883, during the Republican convention to nominate a Republican candidate for Governor. Both men wanted the nomination, but neither declared himself openly. They went quiesly about searing friends and knifing each other.

Collector of Internal Revenue. Mr. George Stoll had held it for a number of years and COL. GOODLOR thought his services to the party had been sufficient to call for reward and applied for the office. The contest became very heated, and in the interest of harmony in the party. President Hayes turned to a third man, selecting Col. Swope. Col. Swope held the office under Hayes and Garfield and was succeeded by a younger brother of the old incumbent, Mr. Stoll. The atter held until Cleveland was felected, when GCa. Janus F. Robinson was appointed. The latter was succeeded by Col. Goodloe. I see it stated that Col. Swope was a rival candidate. I cannot believe that this is so. When Harrison was elected I wrote Col. Swope asking him if he was an applicant, and he replied, that he was not. When Col. Swope went out of office he went to Europe, where he traveled for about ten months. Returning he resumed the practice of law at Lexington, but lived a retired life. He visited me here three years ago during Fair week, but never intimated going back into the internal revenue service. I think the whole trouble was due to the fact that Col. Goodloe was regarded as the leader of his party, and that that Col. Swope was not on speaking terms with the members of his own delegation. Goodloe ended by saying Swope should consider himself highly complimented on being allowed to sit in the convention. Buypalo, N. Y., Nov. 9.—It has just been made public that Detective Patrick Kiroy, Republican candidate for Street Commissioner, and till recently Police Captain of Precinct 1, attempted yesterday to kill Norman E. Mack, editor and proprietor of the Times, for publishing a defamatory article last Sunday charging him with having stabbed Thomas McAulific during a card quartel in 1878. The article was partially true, a bitter and nearly fatal quarrel having actually occurred, but some of the facts were misstated and Kilroy demanded a retraction. This was neglected and yesterday Kilroy got drunk and visited the Times office, swearing that he would kill Mack on sight. Words were exchanged and Kilroy rushed at Mack, his hand apparently on a weapon in his hip pocket, when Editor Crosby rushed at Mack, his hand apparently on a weapon in his hip pocket, when Editor Crosby rushed at Mack in the Millow of the infuriated men. Mack subsequently went up stairs to the editorial room, Kilroy followed him, shouting and swearing. When half way up the stairs Detectives Crowly and Taylor, who had been privately sent for, arrived and hors the drunken man away before he could carry out his design. The These is out to-day with an editor lad denouncing him and further trouble and possibly bloodshed is antinipated. A Patient Undergoing a Trifling Operation Suddenly Expires.

The authorities at the Missouri Pacific Hospital this morning reported to Coroner Frank the particulars of the death of John Gannon, who died at that institution about 9 o'clock last evening. Gannon died under the influence of chloroform. A switchman in the employ of the Iron Mountain Bailway Co., he was injured about 7 o'clock while coupling cars in the yards at Lesperance street. The lujury was of a slight nature, the end of the first finger on the right hand being plached. Gannon was laughing and joking over his misfortune when taken in an ambulance to the Missouri Facific Hospital. There the attending physicians decided that an amputation of the first joint was necessary. Othloroform was administered, and half an hour after bis arrival Gannon was acorpse. The body was removed to the Morgue and Coroner Frank will hold an inquest. The deceased was 29 years of age and lived with his wife at 7302 Soutu Broadway.

This is the second case of the same nature which has been reported in this city of recent date. Two weeks ago William Gerkin, bottle-washer, in the employ of a local brewing company, had an artery in his left arm severed by a piece of glass. He was taken to the City Hospital and placed under influence of historform while the wound was being dressed. He died without recovering consciousness, leaving a wife and three small children at Third and Rutger streets.

POLICEMAN CRIPPEN.

The Romance in the Dead Officer's Married

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH. Policeman Crippen, who was shot by a drunken negro last Tuesday night blings to light an odd romance surrounding the lives of his widow and stepdaughter. The raising of a fund for the widow was begun, but received a serious set-back when it was discovered that for some time the wife had been employed in for some time the wife had been employed in the War Department under the name of Denig. Investigation, however, developed the fact that she was receiving but $20 a month from the Government and was in straightened circumstances. Then came the story of her life, which has been sadly checkered. Her maiden name was Smith and she used to be well-known and much admired around Washington, where she spent much of her youth. Over 30 years ago she married Judge Crane of Baitimore. The pretty girl who is lying ill of excitement in her kome on Tenth street to-day and a younger brother were the fruits of the marriage. The girl was named Lulu and much care was taken with her education. She lived some time in Boston and grew to be a beautiful black-eyed, brown-haired girl, with a full appreciation of her mother's excellent social position. Judge Crane died years ago and the widow married Col. Denig, well known in Baitimore and to a somewhat less extent in this city. Mrs. Denig moved in the best society in the monument city, but at her husband's death some years ago she was left in poor circumstances. She came to this city and the little her husband left her soon dwindled away and when she married Crippen there was not a great deal left. She $tipulated that their marriage be kept from her daughter's knowledge, and so well was this done that Lulu never knew of it till her step-father's death on Tuesday last. After failling the War Department under the name of Denig. daughter's knowledge, and so well was this done that Lulu never knew of it till her stepfather's death on Tuesday last. After failing in business Crippen got a place on the police foce. Meanwhile Mrs. Crippen's daughter eams to visit her, and as the mother was anxious that she should not know of her marriage to Crippen, she induced him to change his boarding place, he going to live with a friend who is on the police force. He visited his wife in the guise of an unaccepted suitor and Miss Lulu, though she rather liked him, insisted that his social position was not good enough to allow her mother to think of marrying him. So the farce was kept up for months. Crippen and his wife sometimes going out evenings together and he calling on her at her boarding-house. The warm-hearted policemen of the district will go deep down in their pockets to help the widow, and it's likely that the proud young lady who disdained her mother's husband because he was one of the force will be obliged to accept the bounty of the "Knights of the locust." e that Lulu never knew of it till her step-

EMMA ABBOTT'S PRESENT.

Religious people of a more or less cranky turn of mind esem to have a penchant for Emma Abbott and every now and then they bring her before the public in a new role. No oring her before the public in a new role. Not reb in Nashville and disputed the state-Church is Mashville and disputed the statements made by the preacher concerning the women of the stage. Now a religious crank has sent her a package which cantains many curious articles. The story has been going the rounds for aday or so but Mr. Pratt, Miss Abbott's manager, has so many stories about cranks that this was thought to be only one of his yarns until the backage was produced.

Thursday afternoon a boot-black went to the box-office of the Olympic and left a package for Miss Abbott. It was long and wide and deep. Miss Abbott took off the newspaper in which it was wrapped and found another. She took that off and found a third. She began to suspect that some of her friends were playing that old, old joke upon her, but after she had unwrapped about a dozen papers she discovered a tin box, one in which marshmellows come in, and on opening it she found as carious a collection as she ever received. There was a note-book spead open and on one of the leaves she saw, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" On the other pages were other scriptural quotations and sentences addressed to her. One of them said, "In this box you will find the keys to my office," and sure enough there was a bunch of keys. On another page she read: "Miss Abbott—Please excuse writing, as I am in haste. Yours, George." All the pages contained writing, and there was a little silk band, an ornament, with "Pray without ceasing" written on it. Then there was a crystal slipper smaller than ever Cinderella wore, a frog paper weight, a pocketbook containing a rosary, two penknives, a small one and a large one, and an indiscriminate lof of stuff that looked as if it had been gathered up from about some old curiosity shop.

From the signature in the note-book she learned that the sender was a man named ents made by the preacher concerning the

ADMITTING HIS IGNORANCE.

In addition to this, Burks has ageed to find places for the remainder of the Merchants' Exchange inspectors in Kansas City and St. Joseph. This was required of him before the indorsament was given, as the ignorance displayed in appointments in those two cities has led to no little trouble in St. Louis. As one among many instances may be mentioned, the experience of the Sayres Commission Co. This company received yesterday a car-load of wheat from St. Joseph, rated by one of the Burks political experts as No. 3. This rating was called into question here, and one of the Burks appointees who had previously served the Merchants' Exchange classed it as rejected. Sush blunders are common, and to prevent them and assure competant inspection, Burks agreed to appoint one or two St. Louis meu at both Kansas City and St. Joseph, on whose shoulders would be thrown the real vork of the inspection law is that the old inspectors will be kept at work and will establish grades as they formerly did. Testimony Taken To-Day.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 9 .- Gerhart Wardel, a gardener, was the first witness in the Cronin trial this morning. He testified that on the night of the murder, at about half past 10 o'clock, he saw two men on the corner of 'chiand avenue and Otto street, which is near a Carison cottage. They were going north, one of them was about 5 feet and 11 inches in height; the other was rather 'chunky,' and about 5 feet and 7 or 8 inches in height. They were unknown to the witness. They walked on and entered the Carlson cottage. A siat was broken on one of the blinds and through the opening the witness could see that there was a light inside. The witness then went home, and on the following morning, the day being Sunday, accompanied by his wife, he went to 8 o'clock mass, passing the Carlson cottage on the way to the church. 'It was between 7 and 8 o'clock,' the witness added. 'when I passed there and I saw some blood on the sidewalk and I made the remark, that somebody's nose nad bled; I saw the blood on the sidewalk and I made the remark, that somebody's nose nad bled; I saw the blood on the stowalk.' night of the murder, at about half past 10

That portion of his testimony as to what he said was ordered stricken out.
"State to the jury, as near as you can, where you saw what you call blood in front of the house."

"Well, I saw drops lying on the sidewalk, it as about fifteen feet you might say, prob-You can go on and describe what you saw "You can go on and describe what you saw there that morning."
"Well, that is all I saw, but of course I have seen these things once before—a drop of blood caused by the cutting the fineer, or anything off that kind; I saw that not three weeks ago."
"Can you tell about where the stains were on the walk?"
"On the middle of the walk."
"And to the south of the steps?"
"Yes, sir."
The cross-examination developed nothing of interest.

COUGHLIN AND KUNZE.

Archibald Cameron, keeper of a saloon on Lincoln avenue, five or six blocks east of Asbland avenue, testified as follows:

'Do you know John Kunze, one of the defendants?' "Yes; I have known him since the first of December."

"Did you see John Kunze in your saloon in the month of April of this year?"
"Yes. It was some time around the election, but I could not say whether the week after election or not; it was soon after election." Was any one in company with him?"

"Detective Coughlin."
"What time of day was it they came to your

"It was in the evening."
"Was anyone else there at the time?"
"Yes, sir, a party by the name of John Dunn, a plumber."

The defense objected to this testimony as The detense objected to this testimony as irrelevant.

The State's Attorney: "Well, if the gentleman wishes it I will state my object. It is for the purpose of showing, and for that purpose alone, that Coughlin and Kunze were associated at that time, and that they were up in the neighborhood of Lakeview, and I propose to show it by the conversation of Kunze in that saloon."

The Court: "I will let it go in, the jury understanding that it is introduced solely for the purpose of showing the intimacy between the two men."

"State what was said by Coughlin or Kunze."

"State what was said by Kunze."
'In fact I did not pay any attention to what they where saying. They came in and Mr.
Dunn was there, and Kunze introduced Coughlin to Dunn."
"What did he say when he introduced him?".

"He said, 'This is a friend of mine.'"
The cross-examination was brief and unin-

AMEXPERT'S EVIDENCE.

Waller S. Haines, Professor of Chemistry in the Rush Medical College, was the next witness. He said that for cichteen years he had given particular attention to what is termed medical chemistry—the examination of blood, poisons, etc. "On the 7th of September," said the witness, "I received from Prof. Bellfield the sealed envelope which I have in my hand. In it was a small chip of wood, which I have here, a piece of blue paper with a reddish stain on it, a piece of cotton with some reddish stains on it and some pieces of paper of this character (exhibiting two or three very small pieces of what appeared to be paper from the interior of the trunk) with some tains on them also."

The witness said these were all subjected to thorough test and he unhesitatingly propused the stains blood. Chemical examination does not show whether the blood is from manan or from a lower animal. Prof. Bellfield had charge of that branch of the experiments were in the way of submitting the hair to the action of alkalis of the substiment with the mitoscope, to determine whether corpuscles and stated that it was impossible with the mitoscope, to determine whether corpuscles wet those of man or beast.

Pff. Henry L. Talman, microscopist, was the ext witness. He testified as to the size of blood corpuscles and stated that it was impossible with the mitoscope, to determine whether corpuscles to the submit also for the carrison cottage and from Dr. Cronin's head.

THE ABBOTT KISS REVIVED.

Juliet"—At the Local Theaters.
Abbott Juliet kiss was taken out of the a few faded violets and old memories, for the benefit of a large audience at the Olympic last evening. After it had been dusted, renovated and aired it was found to be the same sticky, sorghum-like thing that it always was.

and aired it was found to be the same sticky, sorghum-like thing that it always was.

It was brought into requisition at the usual place in the opera of "Romeo and Juliet" and after the plump prima donna had smiled her comprehensive smile and glagled her little mock bashful, exhibition—love glagle it was planted firmly on the appropriate spot on Romeo Michelena's front and apparently glued there it was drawn away with the violence and sound of a high pressure suction engine under a full head of steam. The blush in the theater made the electric lights look like they were covered with red shades.

The revival of "Romeo and Juliet" by Miss Abbott was not an entire success. In her Juliet there is utterly lacking that delicacy of emotion, that dainty, half-conceased, almost devout; confession of the dawn of love and the first thrill of passion in a young girl's heart. Nor were the abandon and intensity of wholly confessed love treated with delicacy and skill. She makes Juliet regard her love for Romeo as a pretty toy to show other people and make a great exhibition of delight over. The thinness of her voice was exceedingly apparent, and it failed to harmonize with Michelena's or any other voice in the company. There was genuine discord in the balcony duet. But there was discord also throughout the performance, the chorus, principals and orchestra falling foul of each other several times.

Michelena as Romeo sang fairly well and the singing of Miss Annandale, as the Page, made a good point in the performance. Robert Micheiana as Romeo sang fairly well and the singing of Miss Aunandaie, as the Fage, made a good point in the performance. Robert Ward, as the Friar, sangin excellent voice and spirit. Miss Mirelia was satisfactory as the Nurse and the rest of the cast cannot be classed beyond feir. Miss Abbott's costumes were very rich.

One of the most popular bills of the week will be "The Mikado," which will be given to night.

Amusement Notes.

"The Inside Track" at the People's will be followed to-morrow evening by "Chip o' the Old Block."

"Devil's Mine" will succeed "The Silver Age" at the Standard, commencing with a matines to morrow afternoon.

PURCHASING HUNDREDS OF FEET SOUTH-WEST OF THE FAIR GROUNDS.

sales and Improvements in Reber Place Building in Chamberlain Park-Buying Wash Street Property for Investment-A New West End Street-Transactions in Dirt To-Day-News on the Market.

In Reber place, on King's highway, at the sales were made to-day at $25 a foot by the firm of Rutledge & Horton. One lot of 50 feet front on the south side of the place was sold for to build a home there, and 50 feet adjoining the property of the same grantor, was sold at $25 a foot to Albert Ruemell, who bought on speculation. Reber place was subdivided, improved and first placed upon the market a year ago last spring, since when lots aggregating 3,000 feet have been sold. It has only been about a year since the first house was erected there, but now the place has a dozen or more first-class residences all occupied.

has only been about a year since the first house was rected there, but now the place has a dozen or more first-class residences all occupied.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENTS.

Jungerfeid & Co., the architects, are preparing a set or loans for a $65,000 mait-house for the Anheuser-Bush Brewing Co.

W. K. Richards, one of the Chamberlain Park lot owners; is preparing to improve his property on the north side of Bartiner avenue, between Florence and Clara, with a $7,000 frame residence and is now obtaining the written consent of other lot owners in the block to make an improvement of that character. Without such consent city ordinances prescribe that brick structures only shall be built in that locality. A great many very handsome frame cottages already embelish that attractive residence place, and plans for several more to be built next spring are ready.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Condemnation proceedings are about being instituted for the opening and extension of De Balavier avenue half-way between Clara and Goodfellow avenues northward across Cabanne place to the Natural Bridge road. This is a much-needed improvement, for there is a wide space between the two avenues named where property will be much benefited by the opening of another thoroughfare to make it more accessible than it now is. The proposed new street is to be sixty feet wide.

A MODEL FOR THE STREET DEPARTMENT.

The cleanliness of the street showing the bright red granite pavement and chalk-white grunitoid sidewalks earily exeterday morning, after the night's heavy rain, was generally commented upon by persons interested in real estate as a model of beauty and perfection, which the Street Cleaning Department would do well to emulate.

To-day the firm of H. L. Cornet & Co. report the sale of 560 feet of ground in that locality at prices ranging from $\frac{3}{2}$ to you prochased on speculation, and there is no dout that he will make money out of his venture as $10 a foot property within the city limits and situated near as that land is to the street car lines enkamper's estate.

Cornet & Co. also sold the premises No. 2326
Wash street for $6,400, to Charles Thuener, who purchased for investment. The premises, renting for $76 a month, comprise $50x185 feet of ground with a three-story dwelling in front and a double two-story tenement in the rear.

A DODIER STREET SALE.

Joseph A. Duffy & Co. have perfected the sale of 100x146 feet of ground situate on the south line of Dodler street, about 250 feet west of Grand avenue, at $30 a foot from L. F.
Campbell to Mrs. Augustus Stinde, who contemplates building several dwellings upon the site.

Mr. Chas. C. Nicholis sold to George C. Bain a 7-room frame dwelling and 1½ acres of ground at Ferguson for $2,400, property of William B. Ferguson. Mr. Bain will make the place his home.

William B. Ferguson. Mr. Bain will make the place his home.

At 3 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon Hy Hiemenz, Jr., will offer for sale at auction the two stone-front dwellings, No. 1102 and 1104 Morrison avenue, with Six133 feet of ground, and other properties, vacant lots, in that locality, and three lots of 29x120 feet each on the south side of Autumn street, 325 feet west of Elsventh street.

A COSTLY IMPROVEMENT DEFERRED.

A failure on the part of the Chicago syndicate, who have secured a ninety-nine year lease of Mr. John A. Scudder's property, at the northwest corner of Olive and Seventh streets, to buy out previous leases upon the premises, some of which run until the spring of 1892, necessarily defers the projected construction of a ten-story building at that point until satisfactory terms can be made with the present tenants, or until the fixed time for their occupancy shall have expired. The corner 35 feet with a depth of 1274 on Olive has been owned by Mr. Scudder a good many years. Within a year past he refused a cash offer of $295,000 for it. Last June he added fifty-eight feet adjoining on the north, with the buildings numbered 300 and 307 North Seventh street, for which he paid $2,500. Immediately thereafter he executed a ninety-in pysar lease of the entire property, fronting Seventh street, for which he paid $82,500. Immediately thereafter ne executed a ninety-nine year lease of the entire property fronting ninety-three feet on Seventh street to the Chicago parties, the annual consideration being $11,000 for the corper piece and $4,000 a year net for the two inside lots.

A COTTAGE AVENUE HOME.

Mr. Lewis Porter has purchased an $1,800 home piace at No. 4236s Cottage avenue from Mr. R. W. Haynes. The house is a six-room brick structure, and the sale of it was negotiated by the Baird-Barnard-Hamilton Real Estate Co.

Estate Co.

OTHER SALES.

John S. King and August Ahrens have joined in a $12,500 investment in unimproved property purchased from the estate of James B. Eads through the agency of Charles F. Vogel. The ground acquired has a frontage of 345 feet on Eads avenue by a depth of 345 feet on Eads avenue by a depth of 345 feet on St. Vincent street opposite the old Eads' mansion. It is the intention of the purchasers of this property to subdivide, grade and improve it with good streets and sidewalks, ready to be retailed off in small lots next summer. ready to be retailed on in small lots authors.

Terry & Scott sold to Rufus J. Delano a lot of 30 feet on the north side of Eads avenue, between Todd and Compton, property of the Pomeroy heirs, at $35 a foot.

The sale of Mrs. D. L. Morrison's mansion at the southeast corner of Locust street and Leffingwell avenue, for $50,000 to A. B. Ewing, consummated some@ime since by Thomas S. Noonan, was finally closed to-day.

IN BLACK AND WHITE. Always Read a Letter Through Before You

It is always difficult to make people appreci ate the fact, which is certainly a fact, that things said in the black and white forcefulness and permanence of a letter are far, more effective than they would have been if they had been spoken. The writer meant them just as he would have meant them had he said them, and he does not in the least reflect that by the loss of accent, look and gesture, the thing he loss of accent, look and gesture, the thing he writes may be widely different from the thing he would have said.

There have been countless quarrels engendered by things written in all innocence, and which would have had no such effect had they been delivered by the living voice.

People vent their petulance in word, and easily correct the impression by following it with a smile of apology, a glance that softens, or a word which modifies. All these things are, of course, wanting in the case of a letter. The words tell for their worst, and in the absence of the writer there is nothing to moderate the annoyance to which they give rise.

The stomach and bowels are first painfully griped, then the latter is copiously, suddenly and repeatedly evacuated. This is far beyond the necessities of the case, most unnatural, excessively debilitating. The organs are incapacitated from resuming their function with normal moderation. An astringent is resorted to which reduces them to their former condition of inaction. To this monstrous and harmful absurdity, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the happy alternative. It relaxes gently, naturally, sufficiently, it diverts blie from the blood into its proper channel, it insures healthful digestion and complete assimilation. It is a complete defense against malaria, and conquers rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, kidney and bladder troobis.

A CONFERENCE of Boulangists was held exceedingly appropriate.

As DECEMBER 1 approaches the contest over the Postmastership in this city waxes warmer. The situation has been fully described in the Post-DISPATCH. Some good Republicans with strong backing are in the fight, which will make the decision all the mere troublesome to the President.

THE disgraceful scramble over political spoils has caused a national scandal and a bloody encounter in Kentucky in which one life was lost and another seriously endangered. Two brilliant and honored men were involved in a savage and fatal fight by it. How long will the people allow this iniquity to remain?

THE resolution of the Board of Directors of the new Lindell Railway Co. to abolish the bob-tails on their lines is wise and excellent. The bob-tail is a relic of the overgrown village era and has no place in a great, growing, progressive city. This movement should be the signal for the banishment of all the one-horse

A LESSON FOR PRESIDENTS

The St. Joseph Herald and many other Republican organs see in the party's November defeats only a proof that the Administration has offended the men who placed it in power and "has effectually squelched their enthusiasm by failing to bounce from office Democrats who should "have been ousted within thirty days after "the inauguration." Thus do its own organs brand the party not only as "an organized appetite," but an appetite as brutal or insane as that which impelled GUITEAU to murder President GARFIELD.

If Harrison has not satisfied the craving of his party for spoils, it is because that craving is insatiable. He has made as clean a sweep of the Democrats in office as he dared make under the laws now in force, or as Republican strife over the accession would permit him to make. Very prominent and distinguished Republicans, members of National and State committees, are now actually fighting and killing each other like hyenas over the bones HARRISON has taken from Democrats and flung to them. He has broken his solemn pledges, suspended the civil service rules, made a "flaunting lie" of the Republican platform, and to reward the men who placed him in office he has made the spoils system a greater national scandal than it ever was before. If after all this they are not satisfied and have inflicted this defeat on the party

By promising to meet that demand Gov. LARRABEE succeeded in carrying the State for the Republicans, although his plurality was only 7,000. By keeping his promise, he and the Legislature recovered ome of the party's former strength, and the Republican plurality in Iowa was greatly increased last fall though not to the proportions of the days before prohibition became a plank in the Republictime, a platform favoring railroad regulation and tariff revision for the suppression of trusts and monopolies was sdopted. But the nomination of HUTCH-INSON was regarded as a triumph for the onopolists and a veto on the platform and the result is the election of a Democratic Governor, the loss of Iowa by the

The Senate, after first trying to load it down with amendments, finally passed it as it came from the Democratic body, and this law, approved by President CLEVELAND with a view to tariff reform, is now being carried out by a Republican administration with a view to the promotion of a system of ship subsidy steals.

THE appeal to knife and pistol for the settlement of personal differences was exemplified in a horrible manner by the fatal encounter between GOODLOE and Swore in Lexington, Ky., yesterday. That two prominent, educated, usually courteous gentlemen should fall to fighting like a couple of savages is a disgrace to our civilization, but the most that can be made of it is an impressive lesson against allowing passions to overcome sober judgment and a still more impressive condemnation of the pernicious habit of carrying deadly weapons arising from the "personal settlement" idea. To this habit was due the death of one of the combatants and probable fatal wounding of the other. That the fight was caused by a of bitter contest over political spoils makes it significant to the whole people of this country.

The TRUTH ABOUT IOWA.

The prohibition campaign was taken up by the Republican leaders in Iowa years ago to side-track the demand of the Republican farmers and traders for rall-road regulation. The party carried prohibition through, but found itself weaker and still threatened with a great defection on account of its failure to meet the popular demand for railroad regulation. By promising to meet that demand Gov.

For the past three years he has been employed as a clerk in the office of the Cincinnati Comptroller. Three weeks ago he suddenly disappeared. An examination of his accounts showed them to be almost $4,000 short. The prisoner admits his guilt and says he was victimized by supposed friends, to whom he loaned large sums of money, and which he was unable to replace at the proper time. He insists, however, that the amount taken will not exceed $2,000, if it reaches that figure. He is a single man 2 years of age. Detective Ryan will take him back to-night.

TO THE BIG COON HUNT.

The Annual Event at the King's Lake Club Grounds.

Shortly before 90'clock this morning a small express wagon rattled down the granite approach to the Union Depot sheds. Backing up o a baggage-car standing on a side track the burly driver unloaded a small keg and drove

There was nothing peculiar about that keg. It was of the regulation size, with steamed taves and tight bung. It bore no stamp and staves and tight bung. It bore no stamp and was billed simply to "Foley, King's Lake." Sergt. Mundinger of the Union Depot force volunteered the information that the vessel contained "oysters," and the express messenger, in proof (?) of the assertion, exhibited the shipping bill on which the keg had been expressed. The bill was for "Old Bourbon Select," and the keg was to be dumped off at the King's Lake Station. No questions asked or answered.

Comments are unnecessary. To-night occurs the fourth annual coon hunt of the King's Lake Club on the grounds of the St. Louis Hunting & Fishing Preserve, forty miles out on the St. Louis, Keokuk & Northern Railway. Every preparation has been made for this most auspicious event. A few minutes for the comment of the "owntra" by valing the "owntra" the valing of the "owntra" by valing the "owntra". way. Every preparation has been made for this most auspicious event. A few minutes after the carnival of the "oystera" the valiant Nimrods began to arrive. In singles, pairs and three of a kind they put in an appearance, "armed each with his battle are and girded at the loins." Cordunoy breeches buiging with "ammunition"—likewise oystera—were seen at every hand preserved in wicker covered demijohns. Most of the hunters in addition to the breeches wore a huge smile of inherent joy and anticipation. The train officials meetily surrendered an entire car to the booted and coated select, and at 9:30 the train pulled out. The party will be gone about three days, all of which time will be spent by the members either angling on the broad bosom of the lake or tramping about in the woods and meadows. To-night the annual coon hunt takes place and every man able to pail on a boot will take a hand. Fully forty gins will be in line at the appointed place, and the start will be made at 9 o'clock. "Uncle Sol," with his keen-nosed pack of hounds will lead the march to the fabled gum stump, the hunters following to the deep-toned music of the dogs. Several of the members of the club went down last evening to be early in attendance in order to prepare for the coming of their friends. Others will leave this evening and participate in the fun.

The object of each of the trusts named above is believed by the public generally to be solely to "regulate or fix" prices, and "fix or limit" the production. He will present the subject for the consideration of the body at that time and hopes to have some action taken. He said:

"I think the public at large has an entirely erroneous view of this new law. To put the matter in a nut-shell, the enactment according to my ideas was passed to prevent those corporations which would naturally be competitors in a business forming a combination which would prevent this competition. That is, to prevent two or more tobacco factories, foundries or manufactories of any class of goods from restricting the manufacture and sale of their commedity; not, however, to prevent any manufacturer from entering into such an agreement with the middle men, who are in the true sense of the word not competitors. On this interpretation I shall instruct the Grand-Jury. There are undoubtedly a number of combinations in this city, and it is my duty to see that they are destroyed. In compilance with the order issued by the Secretary of State large numbers of the corporations have filed affidavits that they are in no sense

SIR.—I desirs to thank you, as the fearless champion of liberty and human rights, for the interest you exhibited towards me during my recent incarceration, and for which I believe there was no cause whatever. Also, through you I wish to thank Dr. Dalton, Superintendent of the City Hospitsi, and his subordinates for the care they took of me when I passed into their hands last Saturday night a week ago, more dead than alive. They did everything they could do to make me comfortable and hold what little life there was in me from ebbing away, and by the grace of God and the doctor's skill I have partially recovered. I also wish to thank the members of Calanthe Lodge, No. 104, Knights of Pythias, for the care they took of me from the commencement of my slekness at my own home until I was removed by my enemies at night, without cause, for reasons best known to themselves. The brother Knights found me in the Four Courts holdover and ministered to my wants there, and continued their kindly attentions clear through my disability, and are to-day, as ever, solicitous for my physical well-being and recovery. I am now with my friend Dr. McWilliam, 1234 Morgan street, and would like to see my friends there. Respectfully.

Dr. Shaw told them to go down to

and get assistance there.
At the Board of Health office they were told that nothing could be done unless a physiciam's certificate of insanity was furnished.
Then Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Jacoby and Gibson went to see Dr. Shaw on Thursday, the 24th, and on their representations he issued a certificate of insanity.
Gibson took it to the Cote Brilliante Police Station and placed it in the hands of the Sergeant. Officer Monrotus and another policeman were ordered to arrest Ross, and about dark they drove down to the neighborhood of his house in the hoodium wagon.
Ross had recovered sufficiently to go out and was away from home when the officers first arrived. They waited, and presently he came. As he was about to go to bed, in which intention he had been delayed by his family, they arrested him, placed him in the hoodium wagon and drove off with him to the police station. That hight he was moved to the Four Courts and confined in the foul, illsmelling holdover.
Ross sent for Dr. McWilliam, the physician of his lodge, and Dr. McWilliam, who had seen Ross not long before, was supprised and astonished when he learned that Ross was confined and on a charge of insanity.
Dr. McWilliam inquired into the case, talked with Ross and became convinced that there was some motive behind his arrest, for he was sane and there was no earthly reason for his incarceration.

concerning the management of the steam pipes.

All of these facts were revealed exclusively in the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH of October 27, and from that time forward the PoST-DISPATCH kept the matter constantly before the public mind until Ross was liberated and the cruel charge of insanity was withdrawn.

On Saturday, October 26, after two days in the horrible holdover, Dr. Priest sent Ross to the City Hospital, where he was locked up in the insane cell. Dr. Dalton, the Superinintendent, watched him closely but discovered no symptoms of insanity. He called in Dr. Atwood, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum, and-Dr. Atwood pronounced the man sane. Other physicians were called and they wars all of one mind. The Grand-jury visited him and pronounced him sane. Dr. Dudley, the Health Commissioner, took no action in the matter. Whether Ross was sane or insane he did not know and he did not endeavor to discover.

They went out that night, but instead of finding Mrs. Ross prostrated they found her up, having a folly time and as happy as she ever was in her life. She said to the friends, who had come to offer their sympathy, that Ross was crazy and ought to be locked up, and if they let him out he would find his house deserted, for she would never live with him again.

too, and during the conversation casually remarked that he had Ross' authority for selling some of his property. This Ross denied.

Attempts were made to induce Mrs. Ross to withdraw the statement that she had so openly made that she would never live with her husband again, but she persisted that never. would she cocupy the same house with him, and it was useless to ask her to do so.

Dr. Shaw took her to the City Hospital one day to see Ross to come to some conclusion as to how they would live after he left the hospital. They were together for nearly two hours.

pital. They were together for nearly two hours.

Mrs. Ross manifested no affection for her husband, but refused to have anything further to do with him than to receive her support from him and finally Ross told her that he would take care of her and the children and live away from them, but she muss make Tommy Gibson leave his house, where he had been living during all of Ross' confinement. Mrs. Ross agreed and said she would order Gibson to leave that night, and she and her husband parted.

Ilving during all of Ross' confinement. Mrs. Ross agreed and said she would order Gibson to leave that night, and she and her husband parted.

Ross has remained at the hospital ever since and his health is greatly improved. He is almost ready to go to work, and in a few days he will resume his occupation and be himself again, a pleasing contrast to what he might have been, for had it not been for the efforts of the Post-Disparot and its persistent declarations of Ross' sanity he would have been locked within the walls of the Insane Asylum, where a well man's mind cannot long remain sound, and a sick man, eaged with those maniacs, will soon become as crasy as the worst of them.

Once a prisoner in the Insane Asylum, herded with a thousand maniacs, the investigation as to sanity is over. The sanest man in the world would probably receive little more attention than his driveling companions. Any one familiar with the management of large asylums, particularly those sustained by the state or city, knows what silm chances a patient has of establishing his sanity. The most unmistakable signs of reason win nothing more than a verdict of a "incid interval" or "insane cuteness."

Seeing nothing but the wild antice of insane fellow patients at all hours is enough to shake the reason of the best balanced man. The fearfully low percentage of recoveries figuring in obscure tabular compliations issued in annual reborts from the public insane asylums of the city and State tell the tale. Thick witted legislators receive these reports, but never head the leason or ask why the percentage is so small. The fact is that the attendant, too often duil and neartless, is the doctor and judge. There is no careful watch for the return of the first ray of reason, and when there is a recovery it is often far advanced before it attracts any attention. Locked up on a fresh certificate of insanity the patient comes in for slight attention after he is once classified. He goes into a ward to worry out in close confinement—close because of lack of

Then the trouble began, by whom it is not known. The lookers-on scattered, and those personally interested took part in the affair. Dr. Walker was mortally wounded, being shot through the body in two places. Dan Miller, son of the old man, was killed by a shot in the face and Will, another son, received a bail through the body. Samuel Deaver was shot and badly out in the neck," The friends of the two leading figures in the tragedy are a determined set of men and have taken up the cause of the champions. There are fears that more serious trouble may result. The opinion is expressed that the killing of Mrs. Walker in court is the result of a stray shot. All the persons concerned in the affair are highly respectable people of that section. The feeling over the affair is bitter. Both of the principals have a large following, and it is probable that a bloody conflict has just been begun. Both sides, it is said, are heavily armed, and further news from the district is awaited with considerable anxiety. It is said that the conflict was precipitated by a political element, but this cannot be substantiated.

Miss Minnie Wanamsker Makes Her Debut at Lindenhurst.

Where does this money come from?

Do the bookmakers furnish it?

Not they. It may come from them directly, ut indirectly the public furnishes it. The ookles themselves are as cool, calculating business men as the Dwyers, and they only pay out what they take in, minus their own profit and expenses. At least that is the heory of the game, and as the bookm akers continue at their posts it is presumable that they really do make the business pay. It is asked why doesn't the average race-doubtful of the honesty of the race almost from the start. Alcryon's recent victory over Nelson in the Chester Oak Stake race at Hartford should naturally have made the former the favorite, and my suspicions were excited when, just before the Bajoh race, I was told that Nelson had the call in the pools. The progress of the race through the first two heats increased my doubts as to the honesty of the affair, and when the driver of Alcryon informed us before the third heat that he wished to change the weights on his herse I was impressed with the idea that after driving Alcryon all through the season he certainly should nave no reason to change weights. "The third heaf was so unsatisfactory that one of the judges-wished to call it 'no heat' and put up another driver behind the gray horse, but we findly decided that the grounds for such action were insufficient. Later, it conversation with another of the judges, he told me that since the race he had received information that convinced him of the existence of a deal. And finally, meeting the owner of Alcryon, I teld him of my grounds for suspicion, and he made no attempt to combat them."

WHT DOBLE DIDN'T DRIVE.

To Mr. Honner's remarks may be added the significant fact that up to Wedgesday before the race Budd Doble expected to drive Nelson, and he went to Boston for that purpose. What betting had been done was slightly in favor of Alcryon. On Wednesday, however, Doble changed his mind and decided to go to Philadelphia to look after his horses there, and Nelson became the favorite. If a deal had been proposed for this race it is safe to say that Doble would keep out of it, for he is too shrewd a horseman not to know that no common scrutiny would be bestowed on this event, and that there was very grave danger to all concerned in it.

In spite of disclaimers and protestations, there is little doubt of a searching investigation in this matter, and if innocent the owners of the horses should urge it for their own sakes.

The Case of Michelson Against Ingersoll in

DES MOINES, Io., Nov. 9 .- The case of Michelson against Ingersoil, which has been occupying the attention of the District Court here for the past three weeks, came to an end last evening with a verdict for the defendant. The circumstances surrounding the case were The circumstances surrounding the case were peculiar and sensational. The defendant is E. J. Ingersoil, President of the Hawkeye Insurance Co. and one of the wealthiest citizens of the State. The charge against him was that he had aliconated the affections of plaintiff's wife. Mrs. Michelson, before she was married, had been a domestic in the Ingersoil family for fifteen years. She is fairly well ducated and a woman of high principles. She was faithful to her duties and there naturally sprang up a strong personal regard for her in the Ingersoil amily, which was shared by Mr. Ingersoil. In the course of time Mr. Ingersoil's wife died and Mrs. Michelson took the place of honsekeeper, which she held for a considerable time. Michelson, the plaintiff, had been courting her, and it was soon announced that they would be married. This, of course, was a source of regret to Mr. Ingersoil, and he did not hesitate to write her, saying that if ever at any time he could do anything for her he would not hesitate to write her, saying that if ever at any time he could do anything for her he would not hesitate to do it, and that she should not come to want or trouble if he could help it. Mrs. Michelson was possessed offa good/farm and other property, which Mr. Ingersoil had given her. It was brought out by the evidence that Michelson was a thriftless fellow, and that he expected his wife to support him. This she refused to do, and he began to abuse her. This came to the ears of Mr. Ingersoil, and he offered her a home in his family, which she had so many years occupied. The offer was accepted, hence the suit.

The gas lighting contracts all expire on that day and there will be no gas unless a special arrangement is made in a very short time.

No one can state positively that the work will not be done in time nor no one can positively state that it will be. The sum and substance of the whole thing is that the city lighting after January 1, 1890, is it a very critical condition and every effort must be made to accomplish the end in view. drawn between the Municipal Electric Light Co. and the city which distinctly specifies that the first day of January shall be the inaugural day of the new system of lighting. The first day of January has been fixed by ordinance as the time when the new order of things will begin. Now there are grave doubts in the minds of many as to the possibility of doing this by the first day of January, 1890. The whole thing has narrowed down to a question of how much work can be done in less than sixty days under unfavorable eirumstances in the matter of weather.

The work to be done is very great; all the oles necessary have to be put in place. Of these poles 5,469 are in place, and Superintendent Matiack of the city estimates that 7,000 poles will be needed, although others estimate the number at a somewhat higher figure.

of the company must be completed and put in building alone one and one-half stories beto allow sufficient time to set up four 600-norse tions into shape, set up dynamos and make all of the wire connections. On the streets a great deal of work remains to be done. Every great deal of work remains to be done. Every foot of wire on which the current is to be carried has yet to be put up. This in itself is a piece of work of no small magnitude, when it is considered how many thousands of yards of wire has to be stretched on the poles, fastered to the insulators on the cross arms and connected and switched in the variety of ways necessary to make the proper circuits and connections.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 poles have to be put in pince, and this will be a somewhat slow and tedjous task owing to the bad weather. The company claims that it is increasing its pole force to the greatest possible extent and is rushing the work as fast as possible. The company also shouly asserts that the whole force to the greatest possible extent and is rushing the work as fast as possible. The company also stoutly asserts that the whole system of 1,600 or more are lamps will be ready to put into operation on the day specified in the contract.

Under the most encouraging and favorable circumstances it will be just barely possible to get the whole plant in position, but it will not be possible to get the plant in shape in time to make preliminary tests of the system and find out its defects.

SUFT. MATLACK

and the Municipal Co. both claim that an entire electric lighting system of the extent of the one being put up here can be built and put in such shape in the given time that on the day for the lighting to begin, the engines can be started, the dynamos set in motion and the whole system put into active operation with only a break here and there too insignificant te mention. The experiment has never been tried here before and may succeed, but it has been the experisence of all experts on machinery that some time was necessary to get engines into running order after they were set up. The Municipal Co. has four 600-horse power engines, which are just being unloaded from the cars, these engines must be put together, adjusted, and be put in running order in less than sixty days, which is a very short time. It has been the experience of all the cable roads in this city, for example, that it was necessary to run their engine a week of two, at least, before they could be depended upon to do reliable work.

The Typotherm.

At the meeting of the St. Louis Typothetm last night, Mr. W. J. Gilbert delivered an address on "Ancient Bookmaking." It was of an interesting and entertaining character. Mr. E. W. Stephens, editor of the Columbia (Mo.) Herald and President of the Missouri Press Association, was the guest of the evening. Company G's Ball.

Company G of the National Guards of Missouri gave its annual ball at the Armory last night. The hall was tastefully decorated and beautifully illuminated. There was a large attendance and the evening was spent most enjoyably. Dancing commenced at 9 o'clock and continued until II, when the company gave an exhibition drill.

THE BOBTAIL MUST GO.

PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY THE LINDELL

ines."
Mr. Capen was asked whether he thought the bobtail car in St. Louis.

"I hope so," he replied." The bobtail ear ught to go. There should not be one of head, and it is not known that anyexists. If it does it will materialize on Tuesday, and will make a klok before the committee, and then retreat vanquished. As far as could be learned to-day the Municipal Assembly, or at least a majority of the members, are in favor of the bill, and many are making special efforts to have it passed.

From the House of Delegates the bill will go to the Council, where it is expected to meet a very kindly welcome.

The bob-tail care have been rapidly crowded out in the last few years and there are not many lines at present using them.

The Jefferson Avenue line has all bob-tails, the South St. Louis branch of the People's road has them, the Lindell Co. has some; the Benton & Bellefontaine, the Union and one or two extensions of other roads are the only ones still using the simon-pure bob-tails. Some others have two-horse platform cara without conductors. These of course will come under the new ordinances.

THE STOCK BROKERS.

Private Wire Advices Received by Gaylord, Bleasing & Co. NEW YORK, Nov. 9, 9 a. m.—No London quotations, the Exchange being closed for repairs. The bankers at the Windsor last evening thought the bank statement would show a moderate increase in reserves, as money has been flowing to this center from the interior been flowing to this center from the interior the greater part of the week. It was hard to place money on call yesterday at 6 per cent. Cammaok was inquiring of his newspaper friends who it was that sold so much Lackawanna yesterday, but the boys know all about it, and what few genuine sales that were actually made were traced to his own brokers. However this deal may turn out, the bulls say the market ian't going down in any event, because the good railroad properties constantly show increased strength. The Bulletis his morning save: "Fitteen of the city banks, principally engaged in business with the interior, show that they shipped $1,122,000 more currency to the country last week than they received."

From New York, 10:80 a. m.—The banks gained from the Treasury this week, $1,000,000; banks lost to the interior, $845,000; net gain, $155,000.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 .- A dispatch from Milwau kee, Wis., says: A fine looking young man appeared at the war recruiting station on East Water street a few days ago and made East Water street a few days ago and made application for admission to the army. He passed an excellent examination and was accepted and sent to the front. His name was given as Edwin J. Drexel, and after he left for the front it was learned that he was a nephew of the late A. J. Drexel, the millionaire banker of Philadelphia, whose daughter, Catherine, took the white veil at Pittsburg Thursday. He was a sort of disinherized member of the wealthy family, some of his youthful actions, it is said, shocking his relatives to such an extent that they concluded to let him out in the division of the property. After wandering about the country for several years he concluded that the standing army was about the last resort for him.

The surprise entertainment given by Keystone Lodge last Wednesday evening was a grand success. The following talent participated: E. S. Pike, "Sheridan's Ride:"Eli Foster, comical sketches; Geo. McMinn, Shakspeare characters; Bro. Gill Robinson gave a pleasant reminiscence of the early history of the lodge; Louis Moller, "Eli Ferkins' Lecture at Pottsville;" Carl F. Haefner, solo, "Evangeline;"Elia R. Moone, "The Inventor's Wife;" Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Moone, comic duet, concluding with comical stereoption pictures by C. W. Hoffmann.

The Odd Fellows of this city are anticipating a lively time this winter. From present indications the increase in membership will exceed that of last year, which was unusually large. Scarcely a meeting passes in any of the city lodges but what one or more applications are handed in.

An unusual gathering of Odd Fellows assembled at Wildey Lodge Tuesday last to witness an initiation by the csiebrated Wildey degree staff, and were well repaid for their attendance, the ceremonies being conducted in a manner not only impressive to the candidate, but instructive and entertaining to the members present.

THE WASHINGTON DELEGATION.

After the close of the elections there will be a rush of Congressmen to Washington, and it has been decided to at once open headquarters, and in a short time to send a delegation to that city. At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Executive Committee met, the matter was thoroughly discussed and arrangements made for properly presenting the claims of this city at the capital. The delegation will probably not leave until the latter part of the month, as the prospects are that by November 26 there will be more Congressmen in St. Louis than in Washington. Fully one hundred and fity are expected to attend the Silver Convention, and this number may be much increased. As far as it can be done without interfering with the work of the Silver Convention, the visitors will be taken in charge by the World's Fair Committee, and shown the advantageous location and the many attractions of the city. When they take their departure they will be accompanied by a strong delegation of St. Louisans, and from that time forward the campaign will center in Washington.

At 40 'clock yesterday afternoon the Indiana Committee met and formulated an address to the citizens of that State, asking that they support St. Louis for the World's Fair. At 8 o'clock a large and enthusiastic meeting of ex-Tennesseeans was held, Judge J. C. Phillips presiding. A number of letters were read from leading citizens of Tennessee, promising their support, and an address was formulated, which will be mailed in a day or two. The Executive Committee sent an address to every Congressman in the country. After setting forth the claims of the city it is stated that the support of from life to 120 Congressmen has been received and the fact previously mentioned in the Post-Disparath that New York and Washington will favor St. Louis above any other city is dwelt upon at length.

In speaking of the World's Fair to a Post-Disparch reporter Mr. J. B. Leighton, President of the Frovidence Jewelery Co., said that the jewelery trade of St. Louis were all ready to contribute to any cause that would further the commercial prosperity of the city. Unlike the St. Louis is walers' business men of contribute to any cause that would further the commercial presperity of the city. Unlike the St. Louis jewelers' business men of that class in New York City were doing little if anything towards making up money for the cause there. The Jacelers' Weekly, a paper of national repute, and published in Gotham, has a policy which concedes the right of each of the contexting cities to secure the Fair if it can, and is not so narrow as to confine all of its efforts to New York City.
